

Domestic post card rates
East and West Germany

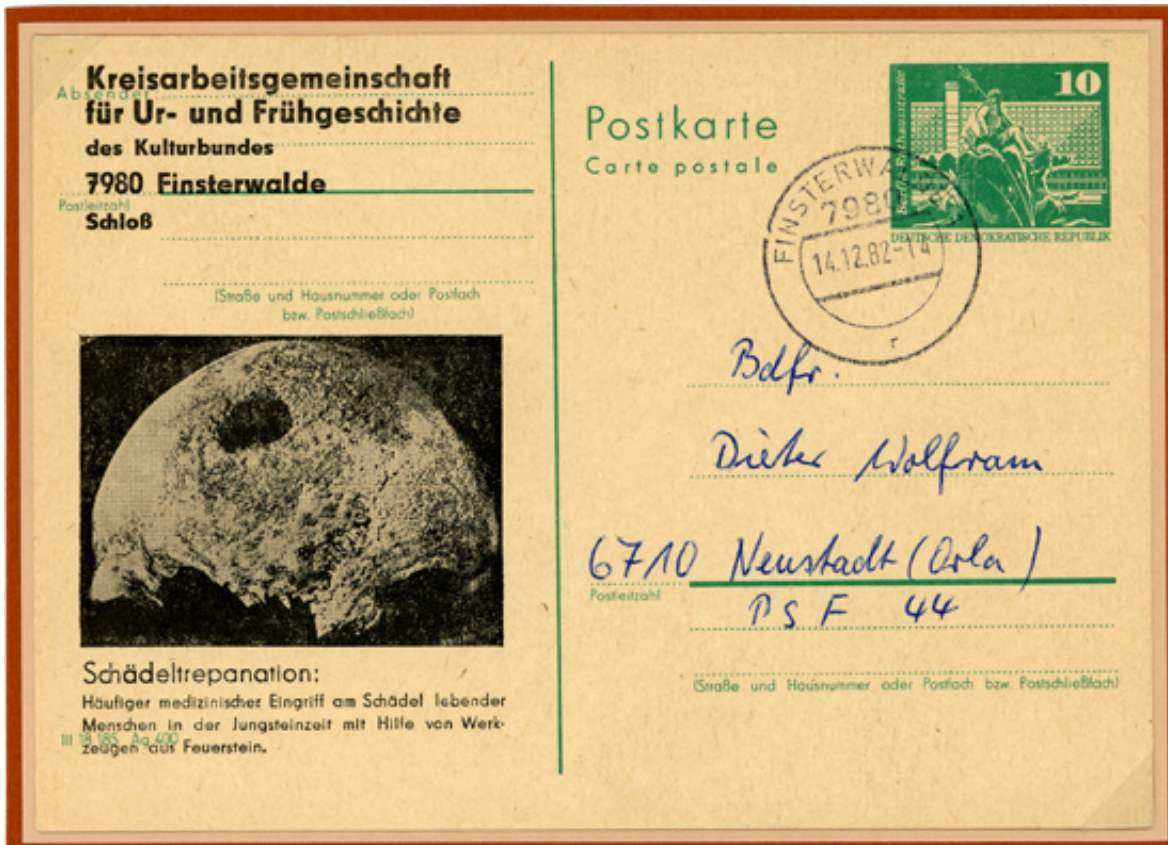

Cave bear skulls, arranged in rows, were believed to be a religious cult phenomenon until it was recently shown they were likely moved by modern workers.

Registration receipt with commemorative cancel

Cave bears were often over eight feet tall.

Medicine

Evidence of medical practices are found at some Neandertal sites. Holes in the skull appear to be a result of surgery.

Government postal card overprinted for use by the 'Office of Ancient and Early History'